

Wound Healing Solutions, LLC

Serving the State of New Jersey since 2001, Wound Healing Solutions has assisted long-term care facilities in elevating their standard of wound care services.

Maintaining a flawless record in assisting nursing facilities achieve a deficiency free rating in their state survey for F309 and F314, more and more nursing facilities are choosing Nurse Practitioners (NP) as their specialty healthcare provider.

Research conducted for more than 40 years has established that NPs provide high-quality, cost-effective and personalized health care. NPs are different from other healthcare providers - they focus on the whole person when treating specific health conditions educating patients and families on their health concerns.

Outcomes from studies of NP practice support that the quality of NP care is at least equivalent to - and sometimes better than - that of physician care. This difference is magnified when looking at wound management services.

WHS Nurse Practitioners

Nurses are considered the cornerstone provider when it comes to taking care of wounds. This benefit is heightened further when the nurse providing wound oversight is also a Nurse Practitioner from Wound Healing Solutions.

- ❖ Board certified in Wound Care by either the American Academy of Wound Management, Wound Ostomy and Continence Nursing Certification Board, or The National Alliance for Wound Care
- ❖ Have graduate, advanced education and advanced clinic training beyond their initial registered nurse preparation
- ❖ Provide compassionate care for your residents and staff
- ❖ Utilize sharp debridement conservatively considering your resident's comfort and treatment goals
- ❖ Facilitate interdisciplinary management
- ❖ Are versed with State Department of Health requirements, MDS coding and documentation requirements
- ❖ Support your facility with educational development and strive to develop your staff
- ❖ Order, perform and interpret diagnostic tests, diagnose and treat acute and chronic conditions, prescribe medications and treatments

In addition to clinical services, NPs focus on health promotion, disease prevention, health education and counseling. They guide patients to make smarter health and lifestyle choices. Services provided by NPs result in fewer instances of emergency room visits and lower costs of care including supply utilization.

As prior front-line care providers, WHS NPs have empathy for your staff and appreciate the challenges surrounding day to day care.

WHS NPs are truly partners in the healthcare of your residents and the impression of your facility.
